I am Sara Renneker, the 4th grade homeroom teacher. In addition to teaching the core classes for fourth grade, I also teach third grade Religion, fifth and seventh grade math.

I earned my Bachelor's degree in English Literature in 2015 from American Military University and my Master's in Teaching in 2019 from Lindenwood University. In my younger years, I worked as a nanny and a preschool teacher.

Math is such an important subject for students to learn, because we use it in our everyday lives. While working on fractions, 5th grade often asks why we need to know how to add and subtract fractions!

I married my high school sweetheart, we have 2 kids and 3 labradoodles. Thanks to the military, we have been to some pretty cool places - I've still been to more countries than states, but I am slowly working on that! I enjoy traveling, reading, sports (Cardinals and Blues) and cheering on whichever sport my son is playing for.

St. John's is a pretty special place to be. I attended school here as a child, and graduated in 1995. The staff are amazing and it makes me happy to work with them.
